The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5, 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Baek.

As to claims 1-4, 7 and 8, note Fig.9 which identically discloses the claimed transfective display device comprising a half-wave plate 233 formed between a second polarizer 237 and a lower substrate. See the remainder of the recited features in paragraphs 0085 – 0089. Regarding claim 4, note Figs. 6 and 7 which disclose the optical compensation plate 142 having a short axis disposed at a 45 degree angle to the transmissive axis of the second polarizer 152 (paragraphs 0070-0072, 0081).

It is noted that the transitional term “comprising”, which is synonymous with “including,” “containing,” or “characterized by,” is inclusive or open-ended and does not exclude additional, unrecited elements or method steps. See, e.g., Genentech, Inc. v. Chiron Corp., 112 F.3d 495, 501, 42 USPQ2d 1608, 1613 (Fed. Cir. 1997) (“Comprising” is a term of art used in claim language which means that the named elements are essential, but other elements may be added and still form a construct within the scope of the claim.); Moleculon Research Corp. v. CBS, Inc., 793 F.2d 1261, 229 USPQ 805 (Fed. Cir. 1986); In re Baxter, 656 F.2d 679, 686, 210 USPQ 795, 803 (CCPA 1981); Ex parte Davis, 80 USPQ 448, 450 (Bd. App. 1948) (“comprising” leaves “the claim open for the inclusion of unspecified ingredients even in major amounts”).

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Baek in view of Takizawa et al.

The only difference between Baek's display device and that of the instant claim is the twisting angle of 0 to 50 degrees. Baek discloses a twisting angle of 0 degree (paragraphs 0028, 0073, 0096). Takizawa et al disclose that it was known to employ liquid crystals having a twisting angle of 40 degrees for improving transmissivity (paragraph 0123). Thus, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art in view of Takizawa et al to employ liquid crystals having a twisting angle of 10 - 50 degrees in Baek's display device for improving transmissivity.
